FREE SUMMER HUMANITIES CLASS

ARTSC 198.003
Developing Study Skills & Reading Comprehension for the Humanities

July 20-31
MWF 1-2.30 on Zoom & T/TH Online Assignments

Navigating difficult texts critically is essential for a college education and for a deeper relationship with the complex world that we live in. This can feel pretty tricky to start with though! In this intensive two-week class we will take you through a variety of different readings, from different disciplines, sharing the skills and strategies that helped us to read and study during our undergraduate education. Alongside this we will present ways that the different humanities engage with problems we face in our world today and provide you with the apparatus to think through these problems clearly.

BENEFITS TO CNM STUDENTS:
- Receive transferable credit for degree completion in Chicana/o, Native American, Latin American Studies & other subjects in the Humanities
- Get to know UNM faculty and grad students in History, Philosophy and American studies
- Join a network of transfer specialists in the Humanities
- Learn about the UNM campus and resources
- Develop skills to navigate university spaces
- Strengthen reading, argument analysis and study skills

HOW TO ENROLL?
Complete Interest form: http://advisement.unm.edu/resources/loboconnect-interest-form.html
or search “Loboconnect” in the UNM search bar

NEED HELP REGISTERING?
Contact: Laura Valdez
lvaldez@unm.edu
Director of University Advisement

INSTRUCTOR CONTACT INFORMATION:
April Chavez:
akkaterichavez@unm.edu
Simon Walker:
walkers@unm.edu
Melissa Bokovoy:
mbokovoy@unm.edu

MORE LOBO CONNECT COURSES:
http://advisement.unm.edu/resources/lobo-connection-courses.html